Besides the Public having the sets played by Niel Gow and Sons, (which is the first time their Sets have been in print, in any mannes whetevers) they are straight a Medle 2s. Breakspey and Reel following alternated in their respectively, as the frequent changing, the key has been found to oftend the ear. Besides the Dancing tunes, there are a good many most beautiful Slow Strathspeys, which does not interfere with the Medleys. Above eighty of the tunes, as they stand in this Repository, may be played upon the German Flute; and as the whole have been selected as being the very best tunes, the whole may be easily adapted for Military Bands.

Neil Gow and Sans having been formerly solicited to publish their Sets of the Original Scorcu Dances, as well as to arrange them as Medleys, they flatter themselves that their Repository will meet the approbation of the lovers of that style of Music.

PRESERVATION OF GAME.

THE GAME on the estate of PERTH having been much destroyed for some years past, Lord Perth is under the necessity of rocalling all permissions hitherto granted to shoot on his estate. From this consideration and the extreme backwardness of the season, Lord Perth has resolved to preserve the Game this year. He therefore trusts a reservation so necessary will not be encroached on.

Poschers and other unqualified persons are positively prohibited from shooting under pain of the strictest prosecution.

A division of French dragoons dispersed the people. The tumult increased: The people destroyed the symbols of liberty and equality, hoisted some old standards of Medicia, decorated the portraits of Francis II. and Paul I. placed them by the side of the Grand Duke and the Pope, and illuminated the city at night, amidst such loud rejoicings, that the French garrison thought proper to retreat by the gare called del Soccorso. A considerable corps of insurgents has effected a junction with the Imperial troops in Tuscany, and drove the French from Pistoja and Fluernee. The royal army under Cardinal Ruffo has defeated the Republican army under the Archbishop Cardinal, and taken the latter prisoner.

A deputation from Florence is arrived here, to invite the Grand Duke to return to his dominions. When Macdonald lately advanced he left only small garrisons in several places in the Roman, Neapolitan and Tuscan territories. The inhabit tants rose, took them prisoners, or forced them to fly. Car-dinal Ruffo is advancing with his army from 'Naples to the Roman territory. The insurgents of Tucany have offered to march against Macdonald, who was retiring towards Leghorn, the Austrians.

EDINBURGH-AUGUST 3. -----

FRENCH AND SPANISH FLEETS.

Wednesday a Lisbon mail arrived at London, brought to Falmouth by the King George packet, Captain Yescombe, in feven days.

This packet brings an account, that immediately prerious to her failing, a messenger had arrived at Lisbon, with intelligence of the combined French and Spanish fleets, to the amount of 42 fail of the line, having got into Cadiz harbour on the 10th inft.

This account flates nothing refpecting any action, and if the number of the enemy faid to have reached Cadiz be correct, we must suppose the reports of an action, by the way of France, was unfounded; though we shall be curious to learn from what the heavy firing for fo many hours, heard on the 9th by the officers of the Haerlem, and Mr Jackson, matter of the Ville de Paris, could have proceeded.

As foon as Lord Keith received advices from Earl St Vincent, he haltened after the combined fquadrons, and, we understand, he was only 12 miles off when they got into port. It was rumoured this morning that the fleets had failed again on the 14th, but this rumour is not believed. Lord Keith, it was thought, would immediately form the blockade of Cadiz.

On the 20th of July his Majesty's ship Mermaid ar. rived in the Tagus.

000 HAMBURGH MAILS.

The Hamburgh mail due on Sunday arrived in Lon don on Wednesday, as did the one due that day.

In a foregoing column our readers will find an ex tract from the Vienna Gazette brought by the first mail. Without entering into minute details, the following will be found to contain the fubstance of the intelligence received :

The Vienna Court Gazette of the 13th contains ar account of the further occurrences of the war. General Macdonald had left Piftoia and Florence, and advanced towards the fea-coast, with a view to embark.

The account of the victory obtained over Moreaus brought by the two last mails, which we confidered as entitled to little credit, is not confirmed.

The greater part of his troops are between Ultri, Sarona, Vado, and Loano-he is gradually filing off towards Nice. General Kaim has been fent to purfue him through Novi; but it is thought he will effect his retreat to the French frontiers. The important pals of the Bochetta is defended by 10,000 men.

A supplement to the Vienna Court Gazette of 17th ult. contains an account of the furrender of the strong fort of Urbano, after a heavy bombardment of three hours. Seven hundred men, 30 pieces of cannon, and large magazines of ammunition and provision were taken there. The garrison was dismissed, on its engaging not to ferve against the Allies for fix months.

The strong tower, called Cerefa, before Mantua was taken on the 9th ult. by ftorm, together with the bridge over the Bajola, and its fluice. The guns of the fecond redoubt were dismounted by the heavy cannon ade, and feveral batteries were erecting to fecure the front of this capital post.

Before Alessandria the third battery with all its guns was completed, and the trenches were almost ready. Turin had furnished 2000 waggons, 1500 carts, and 900 horses, for the transporting of befieging implements. Macdonald's army, 15,000, has directed its march in two columns, one for Lucca and the Genoese, the other for Leghorn. Macdonald himfelf is detained at Pistoja by his wounds.

Two Spanish messengers, last from Paris, had arrived at Vienna, and, it was conjectured, with propositions of peace.

A counter-revolution has broken out in Tufcany, in confequence of which the Grand Duke has been invited, by a deputation from Florence, to return to his dominions. A general spirit of insurrection prevailed against the French in the Tuscan, as well as the Roman and Neapolitan territories; and it is faid to have been by a confiderable corps of the infurgents, which effected a junction with the Imperial troops in Tufcany, that Macdonald was driven from Pistoja and Florence.

An Imperial Aulic decree was published on the 12th ult. at Ratisbon, by which the Empire was declared in a state of war against the French, and the payment of the Roman months and quintuple contingent demand-

Cardinal Ruffo entered Naples on the 13th of June with his army, and took poffession of Fort St Elmo, Capua, and Gaeta, after having defeated the patriots.

From Switzerland there is no intelligence of impor-

The ARCHDUKE is waiting for the Russians, whose arrival in Switzerland is expected by the 4th of August. It is faid to be his intention to attack Baile from the fide of the Black Forest. Massena's position is a very ftrong one; but he does not evince any determination of atracking the Austrians.

In the Belgie departments and in Holland, preparations are making against the invasion. The point at which it is supposed in Holland the English will make a descent, is either in the isles of Zealand, or in the department of the Scheldt. Levies of men are making from the different classes in Belgium. Eighteen thou. fand men have been already raifed by this mode, and 25,000 more are expected to be raifed. The 18,000 men have been distributed in the western departments. A cardon of 15,000 men is to be formed from Dunkin to Oftend. A confiderable degree of agitation preside both in Belgium and in Holland.

CONSTANTINOPLE-JUNE 25.

Couriers arrived the 2d inft. from Ghezar Pache, announcing that, in confequence of different attack, directed by the English, the French have been obliged to evacuate Jaffa, with the loss of 2000 men. They intended to return to Cairo, by the defarts; but the paffage was cut off by feveral corps of Arabs. Boonrarte's corps is now faid to be reduced to 6000 met. Since the late occurrences before Acre, the Arabin Egypt conceived new hopes, and formed feveral corps to cut off Buonaparte's communication with Cairo,

It is seported, that Murat Bey, Pacha of Lope, has re-entered Cairo. Many of the French troops had embarked at Alexandria, for France, but were purfued by the Turkish ships.

Five French frigates and feveral transports have escaped from Alexandria. Commodore Sir 8. Smith detached the Thefeus, of 74 guns, from Acre, to purse them, but a failor having fruck fire with a feel, the filled bomb-shells blew up, and the head of the ship ve ery much damaged; eighty of her crew were killed The Thefeus was obliged to put back to repar.

An improbable rumour is fpread, that the blockels of Alexandria has been raised.

We are now under apprehentions of being detained in the country on account of this new Indian war; this however, has decreased these apprehensions,

The prepartions for war are immense—there is scarce a palanquin to be seen in Madras, the bearers being all repaired to the camp, and Lord Mornington promises to give a good account of Tippoo.

STIRLING-July 20, 1799-

This day the Stirling Volunteers were infpected by various evolutions and firings much to the fatisfaction of the Inspecting Officer, and several other old and expenienced Officers who honoured a numerous and respect-able company with their presence. The Dunblane Volunteers and Stirlingshire Yeomany did them the ho-rour of guarding the ground while they were under COALITION OF PARTIES IN 1792.

The following extract from RIVINGTON'S ANNUAL REGISTER for 1792, contains fome interesting matter :

Two Cabines Offices being now (June 1792) vacant, the Minister, it was reported, fignified an inclination for a junction with that branch of the opposition, which had concurred in the important measure of the proclamation. It was likewife added, that, feriously alarmed at the fate of the nation and of Europe, and anxious to combine all the abilities of the country for the general fafement, which was understood to have been particularly ment, which was understood to have been particularly messed by Mr Burke, who, since the concert that had been established between Government and the old leaders of the whig party on the subject of the proclamation, was known to have had more frequent and free intercourse with the Ministers. In consequence of this overto finally to have proved abortive, from the obstacles to an arrangement which were started on the part of Mr Fox, who would only consent to the proposed union, on condition that Mr Pitt should relinquish the high sitraion he then held, to be more on a level with him in office, while the Duke of Portland, or, at leaft, some neutral person, should be appointed to the treasury; a condition, which was rejected on the part of the Mi-

The friends of Mr Fox, in talking of this unprofect on iffue, afferted, that what he had demanded was no more than what was indiffenfably necessary to his confilency, as being the fame terms for which he contendtd in the beginning of the year 1784: but the friends of Mr Pitt answered, that he was as much entitled as Mr Fox could be, to confult his own character; that admitting him to have been wrong (which they did not rally mean to admit) in flanding upon the prerogative of the Crown, against the sense of the House of Commons, and in resusing to be bound by that sense, as speaking he true voice of the people, in 1784; yet he had then, by a diffolution, made a regular appeal to the people, and the decision was most clearly in his favour; that he had lately in a striking manner shewn himself to retain the public considence of the King, and of Parliament, including even many of the most respectable Members of In Fox's party; and as to the people at large, it was ked, if Mr Fox would abide by the result of any new speal to them; if not, what was the justice or equity of requiring, that Mr Pitt should voluntarily forego all those advantages. The former, in reply, treating Mr Pit's pretentions with great haughtiness, accused him of inordinate ambition, and the latter retorted the charge, offerving that what Mr Fox meant by his claim of perfed equality, was, in truth, for the Minister to have afforded him a complete triumph, by confelling himself in the wrong, and by humbling himself, to have grati-fied a personal jealousy, which, if it existed at all, must have frustrated all the salutary effects otherwise to have been hoped from the projected coalition : Mr Pitt, they added, by manifelting a readiness to share with his oppanents, on terms not dishonourable to either party, that power of which he was in the entire and firm poffession, gave the best proof, that he was sincere in preferring the interests of his country to any private ends

The tempers, which were thus more or less openly betrayed on both fides, in the discourses of the different partifans, left little room for any rational expectation, that thefe two great rival statesmen could ever be brought to act together in the public cause. Yet the meriwhich Mr Fox had in the eyes of many, for having notoriously disapproved the first formation of the new fociety+, made a great majority of those who, tho' they did not think like him on French affairs, still refolved to continue their general connexion with him. It has fince transpired, that notwithstanding the total rupture of the negociation, a vacant blue ribband was offered to the Noble Duke at the head of the whig party, in the most gracious and delicate manner, fo as not to involve any obligation to the Minister; but it is faid to have been respectfully declined, with many dutiful acknowledgents of the intended honour, until he should be called, with the full approbation of his own judgment to take a direct and responsible part in the Royal Councils.

A letter from a gentleman in Lerwick to his friend in Letth, of date 25th July, says,

"You will have heard of the expture of the Elizabeth and another vessel from Leith to Lerwick, which occasions a very great loss to every person in Lerwick. We have also lost in the same way, two vessels from Liverpool, with salt for the fishery, which cambot now be replaced. There is only salt sufficient for this week, and if no supply arrives, the fishing for the subsequent weeks will be lost. The crop is far on here, and the fishing more abundant. We have seven French prisoners in custody here; five were taken in a ship from Hamburgh, boundfo Liverpool; she had been taken by a privateer who put six men on board to navigate her to Bergen, and when within 15 leagues of that port, the mate, and a black man who had been leit on board, attacked the six Frenchmen, and after killing the prize-master, and wounding one of the prisoners now here, in a combat which lasted 20 minutes, the Frenchmen surrendered, who steered immediately for this island; the mate's name is CLARKAON, and the ship's name Latona of Liverpool."

STAR INN, ATR.

WILLIAM DUNN returns his most grateful thanks to his numerous Friends in particular, and to the Public in general, for the many favours he has experienced from them during the space of fifteen years he has been in business in Ayr, formerly in the King's Arma Inn, and for these three years past in the Stars.

W. Dunn observes, that a private combination has lately been entered into by certain Innkeepers on the road from Glasgow to Portpatrick, who have heightened the rate of POST-ING, from One, Shilling to Fourteen Pence per mile, a scheme he also refused to go into, about three yearsago; a similar plan is now falling upon to accomplish the same end, which he also has rejected, in order to keep down the rate of Posting to the common Tare of One Shilling per mile.

W. D. therefore conceives it his duty to acquaint those who are pleased to countenance him with their favour, that he still continues to hire Post Chaises at the former fare of One Shilling per mile; and engages to forward travellers either to Glagow or Portpatrick at that rate, on the shortest notice.

"Neat Post Chaises, good horses, and careful drivers may at all times be depended on, and every attention shown at the STAR, as usual.

THE ALKALINE AFKATED WATER is particularly recommended by the most eminent physicians and surgeons of London and Edinburgh, as the most efficacions and safe remedy hitherto discovered for the above complaints. It has been found from happy experience to dissolve and or gravel in the kidneys, and by destroying addity in the stomach, it materially assists direction, and keeps the bowels regular.—Independent of its medicinal virtues, the Alkaline or Soda Water makes an elegant and pleasant beverage for the table, either alone or with wine. However, it is necessary to observe, that not only the utility, but even the safety of the Soda Water depends on its being fully impregnated with fixed Air; this circumstance has induced R. SCOTT, Apothecary, to pay particular attention to the preparation of this agreeable medicine, and he takes this opportunity of informing his friends and the public, that it may be had at His Shop, No. 8.
